Leading Financial Consultants Team Up for Financial Education Series

Steve Winks of Senior Consultant and Capital Market Consultants, LLC have agreed to launch a new market commentary series for financial advisors featuring financial research charts from their CMC EResearch™ on-line research product.

Milwaukee, WI (PRWEB) February 13, 2006 -- Steve Winks of Senior Consultant and Capital Market Consultants, LLC have agreed to launch a new market commentary series featuring Capital Market Consultants, LLC financial research charts.

Starting with the January 2006 issue, Capital Market Consultants, LLC will provide readers with selected monthly updates in chart and table form from their CMC EResearch™ on-line research product (<http://www.cmarkc.com/investment/researchupdates.php>). The focus of CMC's research observations each month will reflect prevailing market conditions and feature industry trends and commentary.

Steve Winks noted "In order to elevate the role and counsel of the advisor, and for fiduciary counsel to emerge as a profession, it is important that break-through advances in the data, processes, technologies and investment methodologies be embraced for the faster, better, cheaper delivery of financial products and services. Clearly a prudent process is needed in order for an advisor to articulate the full product and service menu of the industry in terms specifically meaningful to each individual investor. CMC is a reliable first user of such break-through innovations, which is a major contribution in an industry that has little institutionalized acknowledgement or support for the advisor fulfilling their fiduciary obligations."

"Steve and I have known each other for years. I'm glad we finally are getting a chance to work together on a really worthwhile project involving financial education. Our contribution to Senior Consultant will help advisors stay abreast of capital market conditions so they can do a better job of managing their client relationships," says Barry Mendelson, CIMA Managing Partner of CMC.
